I. APPLICABLE LAW AND ARGUMENT

A. Standard for ruling on Rule 50(b) motion for judgment as a matter of law

The district court must “accept the jury’s credibility findings consistent with the verdict” and “disregard all evidence favorable to the moving party that the jury is not required to believe” because “[w]hen two sets of inferences find support in the record, the inferences that support the jury’s verdict of course win the day.” Winarto v. Toshiba Am. Electronics Components, Inc., 274 F.3d 1276, 1283, 1286-87 (9th Cir. 2001) (quotations omitted). In ruling on the motion, the Court may not substitute its view of the evidence for that of the jury. Johnson v Paradise Valley Unified Sch. Dist., 251 F.3d 1222, 1227 (9th Cir. 2001).

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO DEFENDANTS' RENEWED MOTION FOR JUDGMENT AS A MATTER OF LAW AND IN THE ALTERNATIVE
MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL (C11-5424BHS) — 1

1       A Rule 50(b) motion for judgment as a matter of law is not a freestanding motion.
 2 E.E.O.C. v. Go Daddy Software, Inc., 581 F.3d 951, 961 (9th Cir. 2009). Rather, it is a 3 renewed motion. Id. Thus a party cannot properly “raise arguments in its post-trial motion for 4 judgment as a matter of law under Rule 50(b) that it did not raise in its pre-verdict Rule 50(a)
 5 motion.” Id. (quotations omitted); Fed. R. Civ. P. 50 (advisory committee’s notes to the 2006
 6 amendments) (“Because the Rule 50(b) motion is only a renewal of the pre-verdict motion, it 7 can be granted only on grounds advanced in the pre-verdict motion.”).

8       B. Plaintiff established that Defendants knew or should have known he was 9 innocent

10      Defendants’ renewed motion for judgment as a matter of law relies on testimony from 11 witnesses that was not cited in their Rule 50(a) motion. See Dkt. 258. This includes the 12 following testimony: Matt Hansen’s testimony that Plaintiff had sexually abused him, and 13 confirmation that in March 1985 he told Defendant Krause about the abuse; former Defendant 14 Jim Peters’ testimony that he believed Plaintiff was not innocent; former Clark County 15 Superior Court Judge Thomas Lodge’s determination that Plaintiff was guilty; any alleged 16 disclosure of abuse in May 1985 to James Peters; DeAnne Spencer’s belief that Plaintiff was 17 not innocent; and Dr. Phillip Esplin’s testimony regarding Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation 18 Syndrome. Dkt. 290 at 3-4. It would be improper to grant Defendants’ motion based on 19 testimony never raised by Defendants prior to the jury’s verdict in Plaintiff’s favor. Even if 20 Defendants had properly raised this evidence in a prior 50(a) motion, the Court is still obligated 21 to disregard it, as the jury was not required to believe the testimony. Bell v. Clackamas 22 County, 341 F.3d 858, 865 (9th Cir. 2003).

23      Even if this additional evidence is considered, Plaintiff established a legally sufficient 24 basis to support the jury’s verdict. More specifically, and in response to Defendants’ motion,

1 which contains no citations to trial testimony, the evidence was sufficient to provide the jury a 2 legal basis for finding that Defendants knew or should have known Plaintiff was innocent.<sup>1</sup>

3       1. Evidence that reports were fabricated and Defendants knew or should have known Plaintiff was innocent

4       Katie and Matt Spencer testified extensively that the behaviors attributed to them in 5 Defendant Krause's reports, as well as the quotations describing abuse attributed to them in 6 Defendant Krause's reports, are false. See Jan. 16 (day 7), at 30-118 (Matt Spencer denying 7 behaviors and statements attributed to him in Krause's reports); Jan. 17 (day 8), at 78-110
 8 (Katie denying behaviors and statements attributed to her in Krause's reports); Jan. 21 (day 9), 9 at 5-79 (same). Krause's reports themselves, which Defendant Davidson reviewed, are 10 evidence of fabrication in that they attribute many identical mannerisms and statements to each 11 child, despite obvious differences in the children's ages and personalities. See Jan. 28 (day 13)
 12 at 162-176 (Defendant Krause testimony); Pltf. Exh. 96 (demonstrative). Defendant Krause 13 was unable to provide any explanation for these similarities in her reports. Plaintiff provided 14 sufficient evidence to convince the jury that only one person created the quotes in these reports
 15 and that was defendant Krause. Jan. 17 (day 8), at 91, 104 (Katie Spencer testimony); Jan. 21 16 (day 9), at 14-15 (same).

17       That Krause fabricated her reports is further established by, inter alia, Plaintiff's 18 testimony that he never sexually abused his children in any way, Jan. 9 (day 3), at 61, 103, 136-19 37; the physical exams of Katie Spencer and Matt Hansen showing no physical evidence of

21       <sup>1</sup> Plaintiff incorporates by reference his brief in opposition to Defendants' FRCP 50(a) motion for directed verdict, 22 dkt. 259, which lays out evidence from Plaintiff's case-in-chief establishing the sufficiency of the evidence for the 23 jury's verdict. The remainder of this brief will primarily address Defendants' arguments in their new motion.

24       Also, Plaintiff has ordered and received official transcripts for some but not all of the trial witnesses. Unofficial 25 transcripts, which Plaintiff ordered and received during trial, will be cited herein as: "Jan. [date] (day [number]), at 26 [pages]." Official transcripts will be cited as: "Jan. [date] ([Witness] official trans.) (day [number]), at [pages]."

1 sexual abuse despite Krause's own admission that she would have expected "extensive trauma" 2 because of the alleged descriptions of full penetration and repeated sexual abuse by the 3 children, Pltf. Exh. 55 (Katie exam report); Jan. 28 (day 13) at 55 (Krause regarding Katie 4 exam), Jan. 29 (day 14) at 5-9 (same); Jan. 15 (day 6) at 80-82 (Shirley Spencer regarding 5 Hansen exam); Jan. 29 (day 14) at 88 (Peter Camiel); Shirley Spencer's sworn statement that 6 Hansen never disclosed abuse to her, which is directly contrary to Krause's reports, Jan. 15 7 (day 6) at 182-83, 186; Karen Stone's testimony that Defendant Krause's report of her 8 interview—during which Defendant Davidson was present—contained material fabrications 9 and omissions, Jan. 16 (day 7), at 211-18; Dr. Ann Link's testimony that Katie never disclosed 10 any abuse to her over the course of more than a dozen counseling sessions, Jan. 17 (day 8) 186-11 187, 214; Dr. Raskin's testimony that Krause's report that Plaintiff scored a "negative 13" on 12 his second polygraph is contradicted by the written report of Dr. Abrams, Jan. 17 (day 8), at 13 147; and Katie's videotaped interview in which her statements contradict Krause's reports, Pltf.
 14 Exh. 78; Jan. 21 (day 9) at 80-91.

15 The clear evidence that Defendant Krause misquoted witnesses' statements by itself 16 demonstrated that the Defendants knew or should have known Ray Spencer was innocent. See 17 Costanich v. Department of Social and Health Services, 627 F.3d 1101, 1111 (9th Cir. 2010) 18 ("An interviewer who deliberately mischaracterizes witness statements in her investigative 19 report also commits a constitutional violation."); Devereaux v. Abbey, 263 F.3d 1070, 1076 (9th 20 Cir. 2001). The jury was free to not believe evidence favorable to the defense, and a rule 50(b) 21 motion is not the proper forum to second-guess that determination. Johnson, 251 F.3d at 1227.

22 2. Defendants' reliance on Shirley Spencer's testimony and Detective 23 Flood's report is misplaced

24 Defendants claim they are entitled to judgment as a matter of law due to, in part, Shirley

1 Spencer's testimony regarding alleged disclosures made by Katie, which Defendants claim 2 were "confirmed, albeit inconsistently" by Detective Flood's report. Dkt. 290 at 2-3.

3 First, the jury was not required to believe Shirley, and in light of her often 4 contradictory, inconsistent, and "stressed" testimony, it was entirely reasonable for them to 5 disbelieve her. Further, Plaintiff set forth substantial evidence that Shirley's letter, Pltf. Exh. 6, 6 is a fabrication, that Katie never made any disclosures to Shirley, and that Defendant Krause 7 played a role in that fabrication. Katie testified that statements in the letter regarding sexual 8 touching and abuse are false. Jan. 17 (day 8), at 50-57, 64-73. Katie did not know anything 9 about the subject matter of that letter, id. at 47, 50, 56, and the words attributed to her in the 10 letter were not in her vocabulary and would not have been words she used, id., see also id. at 11 55, 60, 67. The letter attributes vocabulary to Katie that is suspiciously similar to the 12 vocabulary attributed to her in Defendant Krause's reports. See dkt. 180 at 26. Additionally, 13 the question-answer format of the letter is the same format followed in Defendant Krause's 14 reports. Jan. 15 (day 6), at 48-49.

15 Contrary to the letter, Katie testified about a single instance where Shirley asked Katie 16 one question about her father touching her and Katie had no idea what she was talking about.
 17 Jan. 17 (day 8), at 47. There was no discussion of sexual organs or sexual acts. Id. Defendants 18 contend that Plaintiff "did not dispute that Kathryn made an unsolicited disclosure to Shirley 19 that he had sexual contact with her, or that Shirley documented the disclosure in a handwritten 20 statement." Dkt. 290 at 5. However, Katie clearly and repeatedly testified that she did not 21 allege any sexual abuse to Shirley, Jan. 17 (day 8) at 51-57, 64-73, 81, 90, and that the letter in 22 Krause's file was false and fabricated, see supra.

23 Ray Spencer testified that he was present when Shirley wrote the letter about her 24 conversation with Katie, and that the letter was only 2 1/2 pages, whereas the letter in

1 Defendant Krause's file was 7 pages. Jan. 9 (day 3), at 66. Plaintiff testified that the letter
 2 Shirley wrote was on plain, unlined paper, as that was all that was available in the house, 3 whereas the letter in Defendant Krause's file was written on lined paper. Id. Plaintiff testified 4 that the letter in Krause's file was not the letter Shirley wrote. Id. at 72. The evidence also 5 showed that the letter in Krause's file was attached to a police report that was not signed by the 6 alleged Sheriff's deputy. Pltf. Exh. 5. The deputy who allegedly drafted the report, Officer 7 Stephenson, was never called to confirm the accuracy of the report or the letter. Suspiciously, 8 the letter referred to statements that were not made until Detective Flood interviewed Katie and 9 Matt after the letter was supposedly written. Jan. 15 (day 6) at 64-65. Rebecca Roe, a paid 10 expert for the defense, admitted that Shirley's letter was contradicted by Detective Flood's 11 report, and testified that one explanation could be that the letter was written weeks later. Jan.
 12 10 (day 4), at 168-72.

13 Defendant Krause herself admitted that there was no probable cause to arrest Plaintiff 14 prior to her interviews with Katie in October of 1984. Jan. 29 (day 12), at 64-67. In other 15 words, Defendant Krause did not believe that Shirley's letter or the Flood report established 16 probable cause. The alleged statements of Katie to Shirley and the Shirley letter do not support 17 Defendants' claims. Rebecca Roe described the naming of multiple perpetrators as 18 "disturbing" and listed it as one of the reasons why the case should not be filed. Pltf. Exh. 27; 19 Jan. 10 (day 4) at 111. Dr. Esplin testified that allegations about multiple perpetrators would 20 have "elevated significantly [his] concern" because such claims would be "statistically, quite 21 rare." Jan. 23 (Esplin official trans.) (day 11), at 94. Defendant Krause was not able to explain 22 to the jury the similarities of the quotations and behaviors among the three children but did 23 agree that there were many similarities in her reports. Jan. 30 (day 13) at 162-177.

24 With respect to Detective Flood's report regarding his interview with Katie, Defendant

1 Krause admitted that the report was “nonspecific” and not necessarily sexual. Jan 29 (day 14), 2 at 23-24. And, again, Defendant Krause admitted that Detective Flood’s report was of little 3 value, as it did not provide reasonable belief that Plaintiff committed a crime. Id. at 64-67.

4 Detective Flood’s report and involvement in this case further demonstrate that 5 Defendants knew or should have known Plaintiff was innocent. A comparison of Flood’s 6 report, Pltf. Exh. 43, and Shirley’s letter, Pltf. Exh. 6, established that Shirley’s letter was 7 fabricated. Jan 15 (day 6) at 34-71. Plaintiff established that Detective Flood conducted a 8 second interview of Katie wherein she failed to confirm any abuse. Jan. 16 (day 7), at 26-27; 9 Jan. 17 (day 8), at 62-63; Jan. 23 (Esplin official trans.) (day 11), at 101-02. Defendant Krause 10 was aware of the second Flood interview shortly after it occurred. Jan. 28 (day 13), at 38-39; 11 Jan. 29 (day 14), at 23-24.

12           3.       The jury disregarded Matt Hansen’s testimony

13 Obviously, the jury was not persuaded by Matt Hansen’s testimony. Hansen was 14 severely impeached on his extensive criminal record and the favorable treatment he received 15 from Clark County. Jan. 22 (Hansen official trans.) (day 10), at 25-29. He stated that he had 16 no memories of the individual occasions that he was interviewed by Defendant Krause. Id. at 17 16. Hansen described his memories of the abuse as being “repressed,” which would mean he 18 does not remember them. Id. at 24. Although Defendant Krause only created three reports of 19 interviews of Hansen, he testified she interviewed him “half a dozen” times. Id. at 16-17.
 20 Hansen was never provided with the Krause reports of Matt and Katie so that he could compare 21 their language and conduct with his own. Id. at 31-32. Hansen was never given his medical 22 exam showing negative findings of sexual abuse. Id. at 34. Hansen also denied telling 23 investigators from the prosecutor’s office that he could not remember being abused, even 24 though Art Curtis testified that Hansen had made such statements. Id. at 36.

1           4. Defendants' actions, including concealment of evidence, further 2           demonstrates that Defendants knew or should have known Plaintiff 3           was innocent

4           Defendants' actions during the course of the subsequent investigation (i.e., after the 5           Shirley letter and Flood interviews) belie their claim that they did not know, or should not have 6           known, Plaintiff was innocent. This includes, but certainly is not limited to, the following:

7           - Defendants concealed medical reports of Katie Spencer and Matt Hansen showing 8           no physical findings of abuse, despite the fact that Defendant Krause's reports describe 9           repeated and painful anal and vaginal penetration. Pltf. Exh. 55 (Krause report attaching Katie 10          medical exam report); Jan. 8 (Curtis official trans.) (day 2), at 39-41 (Art Curtis and his office 11          never saw medical exam report; the report should have been given to them); Jan. 9 (day 3), at 12          94-96 (Ray Spencer unaware of medical exam findings of Katie and Hansen until decades after 13          his imprisonment); Jan. 10 (day 4), at 64-65 (same); Jan. 14 (Curtis official trans.) (day 5), at 14          12, 17-18; Jan. 15 (day 6), at 79-82, 203; Jan. 24 (Peters official trans.) (day 12), at 20-21, 28 15          (Peters would have expected to have received Katie and Hansen medical exam reports, but he 16          did not). Defendants' uncited claims about medical evidence in child sexual abuse cases, dkt.
 17          290 at 5, are completely undercut by Defendant Krause's testimony that, in her opinion, Katie's 18          exam report showed "there was no injury consistent with this alleged abuse," Jan. 28 (day 13), 19          at 55, and that she "would suspect if a male fully penetrated a child female's vagina, that there 20          would be extensive trauma," id. at 8-9.

21           - Defendant Krause altered the Sheriff Office's indices so that they did not reference 22          the medical examinations. Compare Pltf. Exh. 56 (listing medical exam report) with Pltf. Exh.
 23          57 (not listing medical exam report); see also Jan. 29 (day 14), at 11-14.

24           - Defendant Krause took custody of the videotaped interview of Katie and concealed it 25          for 25 years in her garage. Jan. 8 (Curtis official trans.) (day 2), at 26-31; Jan. 9 (day 3) (Ray

1 Spencer), at 98; Jan. 14 (Curtis official trans.) (day 5), at 18, 85, 138-39; Jan. 28 (day 13)
 2 (Sharon Krause), at 142-44. The jury was able to compare Katie's statements in the Krause
 3 reports with the video and clearly concluded the Krause reports were fabricated. See Pltf. Exh.
 4 78; Jan. 21 (day 9), at 80-91; Jan. 29 (day 14), at 49-57, 75.

5 - Defendant Davidson repeatedly visited and berated Plaintiff in the Clark County 6 jail, pressuring him to enter a plea so that the foregoing evidence would not be discovered and 7 unsuccessfully tried to get him to sign a quitclaim deed to the marital home. Jan. 9 (day 3) 8 (Ray Spencer), at 106-07, 113; Jan. 21 (day 9) (Lynda Harper), at 179-84; Jan. 15 (day 6) 9 (Shirley Spencer), at 86-88. Davidson was shown to have lied about his jail visits, the 10 quitclaim deed and the timing of the affair. Tim Hammond, a Clark County investigator, 11 testified that Shirley Spencer admitted, in an interview with him, that her affair with Davidson 12 started while Ray Spencer was in the Clark County jail. Jan. 21 (day 9), at 187.

13       5. Witnesses' "opinions" about Plaintiff's guilt or innocence are irrelevant to the case and of no evidentiary value

14       There was no evidence presented at trial that the "opinions" of Peters, Roe, and Curtis 15 as to Plaintiff's guilt or innocence were ever communicated to the defendants during the 16 investigation. Both defendants denied ever reviewing the Roe letter during the investigation.
 17 Additionally, the jury was entitled to reject the credibility of these witnesses. Defendants' 18 argument that Judge Lodge and the Vancouver Police Department "independently determined 19 plaintiff was guilty" is meritless. Judge Lodge found a sufficient factual basis for Plaintiff's 20 Alford plea based on information provided by the prosecution which, according to Judge 21 Lodge, came from Defendant Krause's fabricated reports. Jan. 24 (Judge Lodge official trans.)
 22 (day 12), at 85, 88. The Vancouver Police Department relied completely on Defendant 23 Krause's reports. The claim that either "independently" determined Plaintiff's guilt without 24

1 having interviewed any of the children or conducted any investigation is without evidentiary
 2 support. No representative of the Vancouver Police Department testified at the trial.

3 Defendants' argument that "even plaintiff did not believe he was innocent of sexually 4 abusing one or more of his children" is refuted by the evidence and trial testimony. At the time 5 Plaintiff made the statements referenced by Defendants, he was not aware that Defendant
 6 Krause had fabricated the reports of her interviews with the children. At the time of his plea, 7 Plaintiff was unaware of the concealed evidence. Plaintiff consistently refused to admit guilt in 8 exchange for a commuted sentence. Jan 9 (day 3), at 131, 137.

9 Finally, Defendants' reliance on James Peters' testimony that he and James Rulli 10 allegedly interviewed Matt and Katie Spencer in May of 1985 is a non-starter. Peters admitted 11 that in the "interviews," Rulli relayed facts to the children, rather than the children relaying any 12 facts. Jan. 24 (Peters official trans.) (day 12), at 34-35. The "facts" were taken from Defendant 13 Krause's reports. Defendants did not even call Rulli to testify. Dr. Ann Link categorically 14 denied Peters' claim that she told Peters Katie had disclosed sexual abuse to her. Jan. 17 (day 15 8) at 191-95. It must be noted that the interviews took place after the final charges against 16 Plaintiff were filed and the investigation had been concluded. Jan. 23 (Peters official trans.)
 17 (day 11) at 125-26; Jan. 24 (Peters official trans.) (day 12), at 36-37.

18           6. Dr. Esplin's testimony damaged Defendants' cases

19           The jury rejected any perceived value of Dr. Esplin's expert testimony in favor of other 20 evidence in the record regarding Defendants' knowledge of Plaintiff's innocence. E.g., Dennis
21 ex rel. Butko v. Budge, 378 F.3d 880, 905 (9th Cir. 2004) (Berzon, J., concurring). Dr. Esplin 22 was disclosed as an expert on interview techniques, but he admitted that this case is not about 23 interview techniques. Jan. 23 (Esplin official trans.) (day 11) at 85-86. He also admitted that 24 he had not reviewed any of the 15 depositions taken in this case before writing his report. Dr.

1 Esplin testified about Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome (CSAAS), which he 2 admitted has been described as junk science. Id. at 87. Dr. Esplin agreed that CSAAS cannot 3 be used to diagnose sexual abuse, and was never validated as a scientific theory. Id. Dr.
 4 Esplin admitted that there was a significant distinction between the recanting individuals in the 5 CSAAS article and the Spencer children. Id. at 88. Dr. Esplin did testify that Katie's alleged 6 claims of multiple perpetrators would have "elevated significantly [his] concern" about the 7 reliability of the allegations because it would be "statistically, quite rare." Id. at 94. He agreed 8 that the medical reports should have been disclosed before 20 years after the prosecution. Id. at 9 96. And he deferred to Dr. Raskin's opinion about the polygraph results. Id. at 102. Dr.
 10 Esplin damaged Defendants' claims.

11       C. This Court acted within its discretion regarding the admission of evidence 12 and properly instructed the jury

13       1. Evidence pertaining to the interview techniques, medical reports, 14 videotaped interview, and jail visits was properly admitted

15       Defendants argue that this Court improperly allowed evidence pertaining to Defendant 16 Krause's interview techniques, the withheld medical reports, the videotaped interview of Katie 17 Spencer, and Davidson's visits to Plaintiff in the county jail.

18       By failing to object to testimony of which they now complain, Defendants have waived 19 their objections to evidence of interview techniques, withheld medical reports, the withheld 20 videotape and Defendant Davidson's visits to Plaintiff in the jail. Defendants claim that 21 "Plaintiff's lengthy examinations of nearly every witness regarding these topics were repeatedly 22 objected to by defendants' counsel before and during trial." Dkt. 290 at 7. This representation 23 is false, as evidenced by Defendants' failure to cite to a single objection they made at trial to 24 the evidence. In fact, there were very few objections to the evidence at trial by either defense

1 attorney,<sup>2</sup> reflecting Defendants' concessions at trial that the evidence was obviously relevant.
 2 Further, Defendants submitted and the Court tendered specific limiting instructions on each of 3 these topics that were read at times during the trial and once again immediately prior to closing 4 arguments. Jan. 30 (day 15), at 19-20. The limiting instructions were direct and made clear 5 that each type of misconduct "in and of itself did not violate plaintiff's constitutional rights."
 6 Id. at 20. Defense counsel emphasized the limiting instructions in closing argument. Jan. 30 7 (closing arguments official trans.) (day 15) at 52. Finally, the topics were not explored with 8 nearly every witness as Defendants claim.

9 Defense counsel first introduced the issue of interviewing techniques while examining 10 Rebecca Roe. See, e.g., Jan. 10 (day 4), at 129-31, 137-40, 145-50. Plaintiff's counsel 11 examined Roe initially, and did not ask one question about the interviewing techniques used by 12 Defendant Krause. Defense counsel, on the other hand, asked Roe whether there were any 13 interviewing protocols of child witnesses in sexual abuse cases in the 1984-1985 timeframe.
 14 Defense counsel further elicited testimony from Roe that Defendant Krause used interviewing 15 techniques that made Katie feel comfortable, which enhanced Roe's opinion that there was 16 probable cause for Plaintiff's arrest. Counsel further asked whether interviewers of child 17 sexual assault victims should stop an interview when a child refuses to talk, and whether there 18 was any reason to believe that Katie was providing false information during the videotaped 19 interview with former Defendant Peters. Likewise, defense counsel neglects to mention that 20 the defense called Dr. Phillip Esplin, an expert in interviewing techniques and protocols for 21 child witnesses in sexual abuse cases.

22 Thus, defense counsel opened the door to questions regarding interviewing techniques,

23 <sup>2</sup> Further, it must be noted that while they have filed a joint motion, the defense attorneys represented separate 24 Defendants. Even if the objections had been preserved, which they were not, one defendant cannot avoid waiver through the objection of another.

1 which this Court implicitly recognized by overruling defense counsel's objections during cross
 2 examination. In fact, during both Roe's re-direct examination and Dr. Esplin's cross 3 examination, Plaintiff's counsel made it clear that this case was about fabrication of evidence.
 4 E.g., Jan. 10 (day 4), at 165-66; Jan. 23 (Esplin official trans.) (day 11) at 85-86.

5 The evidence that was introduced about Defendant Krause's interviewing techniques 6 was relevant to show the context within which she alleged that the children made disclosures of 7 abuse. It would have been confusing to the jury—and unfairly prejudicial to Plaintiff—to 8 exclude entirely the interviewing methods used by Defendant Krause.

9 Concealment of the medical report and the videotaped interview of Katie Spencer was 10 relevant to show that Defendants knew, or should have known, that Plaintiff was innocent.

11 Defendant Davidson's jail visits were also admissible for myriad reasons. First, 12 Defendant Davidson's conduct was evidence of his involvement in the conspiracy to fabricate 13 evidence against Plaintiff. Second, the jail visits, particularly in light of Davidson taking a quit 14 claim deed to Plaintiff and telling Plaintiff that his wife did not love him anymore, served as 15 circumstantial proof that Davidson was romantically involved with Shirley Spencer during the 16 investigation. Third, the jail visits were relevant to show Plaintiff's mental state at the time he 17 entered his Alford plea. Fourth, Defendant Davidson's visits to the jail, and his denial that any 18 such visits took place, were relevant as bearing on his credibility as a witness.

19 Finally, Defendants cannot escape the fact that the jury was repeatedly instructed that 20 the interviewing techniques, the withholding of the medical reports, the withholding of the 21 videotaped interview, and the jail visits were not, in and of themselves, constitutional 22 violations. See supra. Also, this Court submitted to the jury a special verdict form which 23 specifically directed the jury's consideration of the evidence, including the fact that it could 24 find for Plaintiff only if it found, among other things, that Defendant Krause deliberately

1 fabricated evidence.

2       The Court went above and beyond what was required to limit the jury's consideration of 3 the evidence to only admissible purposes. Cf. Borunda v. Richmond, 885 F.2d 1384, 1388-39
 4 (9th Cir. 1988) (holding that, so long as the trial court issued "a limiting admonition of sorts" 5 and provided the jury specific instructions about the burdens of proof and elements of liability, 6 admission of evidence that the Ninth Circuit would have been inclined to exclude altogether, 7 was not abuse of discretion); Pope v. S. Pac. Trans. Co., 14 Fed. Appx. 798, 799-800 (9th Cir.
 8 2001) (holding that Ninth Circuit accords district court "substantial weight" in remedying 9 prejudice through limiting instructions, and rejecting defendants' arguments regarding 10 insufficiency of limiting instructions because the defendants failed to make a showing that the 11 jury was unable to "compartmentalize the evidence."<sup>3</sup>). Defendants' citation to two cases from 12 outside the Ninth Circuit for the proposition that the Court's limiting instructions were 13 insufficient (dkt. 290 at 9) is unpersuasive, as neither case has anything to do with the issues at 14 hand. See U.S. v. Dunn, 307 F.2d 883, 886 (5th Cir. 1962) (holding that a prosecutor's 15 opinions could not be effectively limited by instruction because opinions are not matters for 16 jury consideration); Sowell v. Walker, 755 A.2d 438, 448 (D.C. App. Ct. 2000) (holding not 17 improper to not give a limiting instruction on a potentially prejudicial issue).

18           2. The jury was properly instructed on causation

19       Defendants claim that "prejudicial error occurred by including the 'moving force' 20 language in Instructions No. 21 and 22, and removing probable cause as a complete defense."
 21 Dkt. 290 at 17. Plaintiff hereby incorporates by reference his Motion to Reconsider Causation 22 Instructions and Memorandum on Effect of Probable Cause, dkt 253, and his Memorandum

24 <sup>3</sup> The verdict in this case shows that the jury could compartmentalize the evidence; they determined that the evidence was sufficient to establish deliberate fabrication and supervisor liability, but not conspiracy.

1 regarding those same issues, dkt. 262. Defendants' argument should be rejected because the 2 instruction given by the Court was the proper one, as it aligns with the Ninth Circuit's model 3 instructions and the controlling case law. Further, Defendants have failed to demonstrate any 4 prejudice; the moving force instruction is, in fact, more difficult for a plaintiff to establish than 5 Defendants' proposed but for instruction.

6 After the parties submitted briefs during the trial, this Court instructed the jury in line 7 with Model Instruction 9.8. There is no ambiguity in the model instruction. Where a plaintiff 8 is alleging a deprivation of constitutional rights pursuant to § 1983, he must prove that the 9 defendant's act or failure to act was so closely related to the deprivation as to be the moving 10 force of the ultimate injury. Defendants again argue that, based on the comments to model 11 instruction 9.8, the model instruction is somehow limited to Monell claims. It is not. The 12 comment merely states that the instruction has been approved even for the more atypical 13 Monell-based claims. The clear reference to "individual defendant" and "police officer" in the 14 text of the model instruction itself establishes its applicability to cases against individual 15 defendants and officers, not just entities. Defendants also offer a wholly unreasonable 16 interpretation of an additional comment, arguing that because the instruction is not applicable 17 in a First Amendment claim due to the existence of a specific instruction for First Amendment 18 claims, it must not apply to any § 1983 claim. Again, the plain language of the model 19 instruction and context in which it exists completely refutes Defendants' reading.

20 The model instruction is also in accord with the controlling law of the Circuit: "[t]he 21 requisite causal connection [in § 1983 claims] can be established not only by some kind of 22 direct personal participation in the deprivation, but also by setting in motion a series of acts by 23 others which the actor knows or reasonably should know would cause others to inflict the 24 constitutional injury." Crowe v. County of San Diego, 608 F.3d 406, 430 (9th Cir. 2010)

1 (quotations omitted). Plaintiff's proposed instruction is therefore the proper proximate cause
 2 instruction to be given in this case. See dkt. 262-1 at 9 (moving force instruction issued by U.S.
 3 District Court for Central District of California in Gant v. City of Los Angeles).

4 Defendants continue to contend that a but for probable cause instruction was required
 5 by Hervey v. Estes, 65 F.3d 784 (9th Cir. 1995), and other Fourth Amendment or probable-
 6 cause based cases. This argument was correctly rejected by the Court. By the amendment's 7 express terms, an alleged Fourth Amendment violation and absence of probable cause are 8 inextricably intertwined. U.S. Const. Amend. IV. Therefore, in a case premised on an invalid 9 warrant based on false information, the plaintiff must prove that "the remaining information in 10 the affidavit is insufficient to establish probable cause." Id. at 789. This case is different.

11 Section 1983 claims alleging deprivations of rights arising from amendments other than 12 the Fourth Amendment are not affected by the existence or lack of probable cause. For 13 example, a plaintiff asserting a § 1983 due process claim for the unconstitutional nondisclosure 14 of evidence, need only prove that the "nondisclosure was so serious that there is a reasonable 15 probability that the suppressed evidence would have produced a different verdict." Smith v.
 16 Almada, 640 F.3d 931, 939 (9th Cir. 2011). Likewise, the Supreme Court has held that the use 17 of a coerced statement at trial violates the Fourteenth Amendment even if, absent the 18 confession, there is sufficient evidence to convict. Payne v. State of Ark., 356 U.S. 560, 568 19 (1958). Also,

20 [E]ven where no Fourth Amendment violation occurred because there was 21 probable cause to act . . . an independent constitutional claim for the denial of 22 the right to a fair trial can proceed under § 1983 based on allegations that a 23 police officer fabricated evidence, if that fabrication caused a deprivation of the 24 plaintiff's liberty. . . . [A] government official who falsifies evidence against an accused may be subject to liability under § 1983 for violating the accused's Fifth, Sixth and Fourteenth Amendment right to a fair trial, and the existence of probable cause is irrelevant to the resolution of this claim.

1       Morse v. Spitzer, 2012 WL 3202963, *2-3 (E.D. N.Y. August 3, 2012) (emphasis added); 2       accord Kerkeles v. City of San Jose, 199 Cal. App. 4th 1001, 1013 (6th Dist. 2011) (“Even if 3       there was probable cause to arrest plaintiff, we cannot say as a matter of law on the record 4       before us that he would have been subjected to continued prosecution . . .”).

5       Plaintiff’s Devereaux claim for fabrication of evidence is not a Fourth Amendment
 6       claim; it is a substantive due process claim grounded in the Fourteenth Amendment.
 7       Devereaux v. Abbey, 263 F.3d 1070, 1075 (9th Cir. 2001) (“[T]here is a clearly established 8       constitutional due process right not to be subjected to criminal charges on the basis of false 9       evidence that was deliberately fabricated by the government.”); Costanich v. Dept. of Social 10      and Health Services, 627 F.3d 1101, 1110-1111, 1113-1114 (2010) (reaffirming that the cause
 11      of action set out in Devereaux is a substantive due process claim—the falsification of evidence 12      on which a prosecution is based is cognizable under the 14th Amendment as conduct that 13      “shocks the conscience”); Gantt v. City of Los Angeles, 717 F.3d 702, 707 (9th Cir. 2013)
 14      (explaining that Devereaux due process claims require showing of shocks the conscience). This 15      is precisely why Defendants’ reliance on Rolon, Albright, Stoot, and Morse for the proposition 16      that the Fourth Amendment is “incorporated” by the Fourteenth Amendment in a fabrication of 17      evidence claim, dkt. 290 at 11-12, and therefore probable cause is a complete bar, completely 18      misses the mark.<sup>4</sup> A Devereaux claim is a substantive due process claim—the conscious 19      shocking behavior of the defendants violates the 14th Amendment itself. This is affirmed by 20      the fact probable cause is not mentioned anywhere in the Devereaux opinion.

21       Because the substantive due process right to be free from arbitrary and “conscious 22      shocking” deprivations of liberty is entirely distinct from the Fourth Amendment right to be

<sup>4</sup> Defendants’ citation to other cases is also confounding: Hall v City of Los Angeles, 697 F.3d 1059 (9th Cir.
 24      2012) refused to apply Devereaux to a false confession claim, and this is not a false confession claim; and the plaintiff in Chweya v. Baca, 130 F. App’x 865, 868 (9th Cir. 2005) did not raise or argue a substantive due process deliberate fabrication claim.

1 free from search or arrest without probable cause (i.e., “the Hervey line of cases”), a claim 2 asserting a substantive due process violation is not foreclosed by the existence of probable 3 cause. Plaintiff has cited two Ninth Circuit cases recognizing as much, both of which have 4 been ignored by Defendants. In Crowe v. County of San Diego, the Court affirmed the district 5 court’s dismissal of plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment claims on the basis of probable cause but 6 reversed the district court’s dismissal of plaintiff’s substantive due process claim under 7 Devereaux. 608 F.3d 406 (9th Cir. 2010). And in Atkins v. County of Riverside, the Ninth 8 Circuit held that it was a factual question whether a fabricated statement formed the “basis of” 9 the plaintiff’s criminal charges despite the fact the allegedly fabricated statement was not even 10 introduced at trial. 151 Fed. Appx. 501, 506 (9th Cir. 2005). Given that the remaining 11 evidence in Atkins was sufficient to prove his guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, it was also 12 sufficient to establish probable cause, but the Ninth Circuit still held that causation was a 13 question of fact. See id.; see also Riccuti v. N.Y.C. Transit Authority, 124 F.3d 123 (2nd Cir.
 14 1997) (rejecting Defendants’ precise arguments, stating, “No arrest, no matter how lawful or 15 objectively reasonable, gives an arresting officer or his fellow officers license to deliberately 16 manufacture false evidence against an arrestee”); Deskovic v. City of Peekskill, 894 F. Supp. 2d 17 443, 452 (S.D.N.Y. 2012) (a plaintiff’s “fabrication of evidence claim cannot be defeated by 18 the defendant[s’] demonstration of probable cause”).

19 Conceding that probable cause is not a bar to “a Fourteenth Amendment claim 20 analytically independent from a Fourth Amendment claim,” Defendants argue that a “but for” 21 instruction should still have been given, citing Whitlock v. Brueggemann, 682 F.3d 567, 586 22 (7th Cir. 2012) and Hennick v. Bowling, 115 F. Supp. 2d 1204, 1207 (W.D. Wash. 2000).
 23 Whitlock addressed whether a prosecutor was entitled to immunity, not the proper causation 24 instruction in a substantive due process case. Hennick predates Devereaux and operates under

1 the assumption that a substantive due process claim for deliberate fabrication does not exist, an 2 assumption that no longer applies. Moreover, the fabricated confession in Hennick did not 3 change the defendant's status. That is, but for the fabricated confession in Hennick, the 4 defendant would have been in the same position. However, but for the fabricated evidence in 5 this case, the defendant would not have even been charged. Hennick, though incorrect, would 6 still be reconcilable. See Mitchell P. Schwartz, Compensating Victims of Police-Fabricated 7 Confessions, 70 U. Chi. L. Rev. 1119, 1129 (2003) (explaining that Riccuti and Hennick are 8 reconcilable in that in the former the fabricated evidence affected the plaintiff's criminal 9 process (higher additional charges), whereas in the latter it did not). Nothing about Whitlock or 10 Hennick calls into question the compelling authority cited above or this Court's instructions.

11 And finally, Defendants represent that they were prejudiced because the jury was 12 permitted to consider causation by applying "an easier to prove 'moving force' causation 13 standard." Dkt. 290 at 12. Defendants do not specify the alleged prejudice from this claimed 14 error. In any event, Defendants' lengthy argument is fundamentally flawed because it is well 15 settled that the "moving force" standard is a higher standard of causation than "but for" 16 causation. See City of Oklahoma v. Tuttle, 471 U.S. 808, 823 (1985). It is ironic that 17 Defendants are arguing for a "but for" standard of causation when that standard is actually 18 easier to meet than the moving force standard plaintiff satisfied at the trial. Having met that 19 moving force burden of proof, plaintiff obviously satisfied the "but for" standard of causation.
 20 As illustrative of this point, even Krause admitted that as of September 21, 1984, probable 21 cause was not present. Jan. 29 (day 14), at 67. Krause made this admission notwithstanding 22 that at that time, Kathryn had allegedly independently disclosed to Shirley Spencer, Shirley 23 Spencer's (alleged) letter existed and Detective Flood had interviewed Kathryn. Moreover, the 24 jury determined that Defendant Krause knew or should have known plaintiff was innocent.

1 Dkt. 275 at 1. It is impossible, then, for the jury to return a verdict that there was probable 2 cause—i.e., reasonable belief that Plaintiff probably committed the crime—for his arrest and 3 prosecution. Therefore, although plaintiff disagrees that this Court erred in instructing the jury 4 as to the “moving force” standard, any error in doing so would be harmless. Gantt, 717 F.3d at 5 707 (“If, however, the error in the jury instruction is harmless, it does not warrant reversal.”).

6 3. The jury was properly instructed as to culpability

7 “Due process violations under the Fourteenth Amendment occur only when official 8 conduct ‘shocks the conscience.’” Gantt, 717 F.3d at 707. In Gantt, the Ninth Circuit 9 expressly held that the following instruction would be appropriate to inform the jury as to what 10 conduct is sufficient to establish the “shocks the conscience” culpability:

11 Deliberate indifference is the conscious or reckless disregard of the 12 consequences of one's acts or omissions. It entails something more than 13 negligence but is satisfied by something less than acts or omissions for the very 14 purpose of causing harm or with knowledge that harm will result.

15 Id. at 708. This is the same instruction given by this Court that Defendants claim was 16 “erroneous.” Dkt. 290 at 17. Defendants argue that the term “deliberately fabricated 17 evidence” was sufficient to inform the jury as to the requisite culpability level. But that 18 instruction merely informs the jury that the fabrication itself must have been on purpose 19 (“deliberate”). The Court’s instruction goes a step further by correctly advising the jury that 20 there is a due process violation only if the purposeful fabrication was carried out with a 21 deliberate indifference to Plaintiff’s constitutional rights. Without this instruction, the jury 22 would not be required to establish the requisite “shocks the conscience” culpability to establish 23 a substantive due process claim. In short, the Court properly instructed the jury pursuant to 24 Gantt and controlling Ninth Circuit authority.

25 RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 17th day of March, 2014.
